THE FOOT BALL CHAMPIONS. Princeton's Big Rushers in Town Today.

THE GAME THIS AFTERNOON WITH THE WASHING-TON PICKED TEAM-SOMETHING ABOUT THE PRINCETON MEN-ENTERTAINED BY THE COLUM-BIA ATBLETIC CLUB.

Foot ball is rapidly gaining a strong hold in this city, as is shown by the general interest | will probably always remain a subject of bitter taken in today's game between the champions controversy, and now, at the time of his death, from Princeton and a team picked from the the matter has been opened up afresh. A great deal of enthusiasm has been aroused by the arrival of this college team, which, by the great game on Thanks-giving day, has brought back to Princeton the intercollegiate championship pennant. Out-side of Yale and Harvard, there is, of course, foot ball team in the the coun-which can be compared with them, but the local players are such good ones for the amount of training and practice they have had that the game this afternoon will undoubtedly be an interesting one. The Princeton team is the strongest one that college has ever put in the field, being stronger even than the team which won the championship from Yale in New Haven in 1885 by the score of 6 to 5. That was the game in which Lamar made the greatest run ever known on a foot-ball field and won the pennant for the Jersey college in the last five minutes of the game, when even the most sanguine wearer of the orange and black had given up all hope.

COWAN OF PRINCETON.

"Hector" Cowan, who plays in the rush line today, is the only member of the team who played in that great game. He is a large, GEN. TOWNSEND'S BIBLICAL PLAN OF DISTRIBUTpowerfully built man and his strength is really phenomenal. It takes two or three strong men to "down" him, and when a man tries to go through the rush line where he is it is like running against a stone wall. Time and again he has gained fifteen or twenty yards with three or even four men hanging to him. Janeway is another giant. He weighs 204 pounds when in the strictest training. He is a first rate player, although hardly as steady as Cowan. Jones, Thomas, Sharon and Black are all heavy men and make a line that even Yale's rushers and runners could no go through. CAPTAIN POE.

Beside such men as these Capt. Edgar Allen Poe looks even smaller than he really is. He is only about five feet four and weighs but or downs a big man is really amazing. Poe is the plan changed." Princeton has ever had who was not a senior. This is in itself a compliment to his skill in foot | The House Investigation of the Silcott players during the game, advising what play to make, which man to take the ball and what he shall do with it is a revelation to a spectator who thinks there is nothing in the game but mere strength and staying qualities. Science has probably won more foot ball games between the colleges than strength. Poe never loses his presence of mind even in the sharpest scrimmages for the ball and his coolness is an inspiration to the rest of the team. He plays quarter back and is always just where he is fixeded. Foe is also one of the best players on the Princeton lacrosse team, which has won the championship from Harvard for the last two all active, sharp players and gook tacklers. Ames, the full-back, is one of the best all round amateur athletes in the country. He added much to the reputation he had already earned by the game he played against Yale last week, and the long punts and drop-kicks he the ball in Yale's territory all the time.

HOW DAVIS WAS CAPTURED. Gen. Townsend Tells the Story to a Star | The South Reveals Its Devotion to the Reporter.

THE EX-PRESIDENT OF THE CONFEDERACY WAS TRYING TO ESCAPE-HE WORE A RAGLAN AND HAD A SHAWL OVER HIS HEAD AT THE TIME-THE ARTICLES NOW IN THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The story of the capture of Jefferson Davis no foundation for the story that the gitive was in woman's clothes. Gen. Townse it was, at the time of the capture, acting as gitivant general, and to him Col. Pritchard, commending the Michigan cavalry regiment that effected the capture, afterward reported in detail the circumstances of that event cumstances of that event.

STORY OF THE CAPTURE. "When the camp in which Davis' party was hidden had been surrounded a party approached the tents and soon noticed two figure steal-ing away in the dark. One was without doubt a woman, and the other apparently a toman. When approached the apparent fema threw off the wraps and stood forth. This was Mr. Davis, and the garments he discarded were a long waterproof cloak, or "raglan, as I believe it used to be called, and a shawl which had been tied over his head. Aberward these articles were obtained from M. Davis and Col. Pritchard sent them to me. It kept them, and when I retired, a number of years ago, turned them over to my successor, Gen. Drum. They are still on deposit in the depart-ment. I believe. Several efforts have been made by various persons to induce the covernment to return them, but without success.

THE STORY OF A PENNSYLVANIA FLAG. "Among other things which were captured with the prisoner was a beautiful flag that had been taken by the confederate army from a Pennsylvania regiment. This was found in Mrs. Davis' trunk. It was regarded as true military booty and was sent to me. For many years I held it, resisting with all my vigor a number of efforts made by the Pennsylvanians to secure the banner, but a bill was finally passed by Congress and the department had to send the flag north.

MR. DAVIS' CIGARS. "Some of the things taken from the trunks should not have been touched. For instance, there was a large quantity of fine cigars which were stowed away here for a long time. At last a gentleman came to me with a note from Mr. Davis requesting the return of the cigars, and I gladly gave them up. I had occasion to look rather closely into the matter of the cap-ture, for with Gen. Holt I was called upon by Secretary Stanton to devise a plan for the distribution of the reward money.

ING THE REWARD. "I did the writing of most of the report and adopted a plan based partly on military principles and partly on biblical grounds. The military grounds were that Cot. Pritchard's regiment, which reached the camp first ahead of the Wisconsin regiment, was entitled to the money. The biblical basis was that those men who were posted around the camp to shut off escape were entitled to just as much credit as those who had a hand in the actual capture. My precedent was the rule of David, who declared that the soldiers who stayed at the camp to guard the women and the property should have a share in the booty of the army. This view pleased Secretary Stanton and he approved my report, but Gen. 136 pounds, but the way he gets through a line | Wilson afterward went to Congress and had |

It has been found that the government dealt, under the law, with Mr. Silcott as the agent of the individual members and, therefore, is absolved from all responsibility. More than this, there is no law constituting the sergeant-at-arms the disbursing officer of made in that game went far toward keeping the House and his bondsmen are in no way responsible for the defalcation. Their bond is given for the proper performance of that officer's duties under the law. The custom of employing the in this city. Many of the members who want to get their money back will probably favor the passage of a bill for the relief of Mr. Leedom so that he may settle his accounts, and in this way they can get their money without making a direct appropriation for themselves.

STATEMENT OF MR. LEEDOM. The following statement of the condition of the finances of the sergeant-at-arms' office was laid before the investigating committee by Mr. Leedom yesterday, and at the examination of the office by the committee was found to be correct, so far as the figures are concerned: "Amount due members, $158,271; amount in safe and bank, $80,611; shortage, $71,850. At the close of business November 25 there was on hand in cash $28,555.

"Of the amounts drawn from the Treasury by Silcott at various times between November 25 and the time of his disappearance the following disposition was made: On the 27th he drew $36,608, of which he paid $21,500 to the teller, Mr. Ballentine, and with the balance paid off notes amounting to $14,500 in the hands of the Metropolitan bank supposed to have been drawn by Congressmen. On the 29th he drew $36,207, which he paid over in full to Mr. Ballentine. On the 30th he drew $60,627, of which he gave $252 in drafts to Mr. Ballentine. The amount of cash on hand at the close of business November 25 was $28,555. The amount in Silcott's safe December 4, when Mr. Leedom made the investiga-

"The fact that there was more cash in the Greece in 1824." A number of interesting selec- safe at the time that Silcott went away than at the close of business November 25 shows that he was afraid to take anything from the safe and that none of the stealing was done from the sergeant-at-arms' office. The money taken was that which Silcott had drawn from the Treasury and had not turned over to the sergeant-at-arms. You see, Mr. Ballenlentine's door lapped over on that of Silcott, so that Mr. Batlentine could have had access to Silcott's cash at any time, and he was evidently afraid that if he had taken any of the cash on hand it would be discovered. # DAYS OF SORROW. Dead Leader.

All over the south there is mourning. The flag of our Union, against which he fought, flutters at half mast for Jefferson Davis. Everywhere arrangements are being made for memorial meetings on the day of the funeral.

THE FUNERAL WEDNESDAY. At an early hour yesterday a conference of the New Orleans committee was held to arrange for the funeral. There were present the members of Mr. Davis' family, the city officials, the various confederate veterans' associations, the officers of the state militia, federal officials, the presidents of the several commercial exchanges, the state and city judiciary and all the leading clergy of the city and other prominent citizens. It had been first determined that the funeral should take place Sunday, but before the conference was over telegrams began to pour in from all portions of the south asking the date of the funeral and announcing that a number of per-sons desired to be present and suggesting that time be allowed for them to get there. This induced the conference to postpone the funeral until Wednesday next, so as to give all who desired to come ample time to do so. As soon as an agreement was reached Mayor Shakespeare telegraphed to all the southern governors, notifying them of arrangements made and inviting them to take part in the funeral ceremonies. HIS BURIAL PLACE. The question of the place of burial was also discussed. The burying ground of the Davis family is at the Briarfield homestead, just below Vicksburg. Here Mr. Davis' elder brother. Joseph Davis, is buried, and here Jefferson Davis' remains will also ultimately be placed, but as it is impossible to hold the funeral ceremonies at Briarfield, it was determined to lay the remains temporarily at rest in the tomb of the Confederate veteran association of the army of northern Virginia, in Metallic ceme-

The citizens of Montgomery. Als., tele-graphed to Mrs. Davis asking that the body of her husband be interred in that town on Capitol hill, under the confederate monument Atlanta has made a request that the ex-presi dent be buried there. Mr. Davie is known to have once entertained the project favorably when it was broached to him, but his wife and daughters were opposed. A movement is to be made to induce Mr Davis' relatives to allow his body to be brought was the white house of the confederacy. Jackson, Miss., also asked that Mr. Davis be buried in Mississippi soil. Atlanta, Ga., Macon, Ga., and a number of cities asked that the body of Mr. Davis be brought there, so that the people could be given a last opportunity to look on him. In most of the Mississippi towns committees of citizens were appointed to visit New Orleans and take part in the funeral ceremonies there.

Orion Frazier, the Atlanta sculptor, has gone to New Orleans to take a death mask of Mr. Davis' features. From this mask a statue of Davis will be made for the city of Atlanta. A fund for this purpose has already been started. TO LIE IN STATE.

It was determined that the body should be emoved to the city hall to lie in state there in the council chamber until the funeral. Mrs. Davis asked that the body remain in her charge during yesterday, but consented to allow its transfer to a public place last night, provided it was done quietly and unostentatiously.

Arrangements for the funeral ceremony were laced in charge of a committee, of which Col. William Preston Johnston, son of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, president of Tulane university and ex-aid of Mr. Davis, is chairman, and one member of each of the following organizations: United confederate veterans, army of Tennessee, arm of Virginia and city council. The Washington artillery will station a guard of honor over the remains. Telegrams were received from Mobile and Memphis announcing that troops from those cities would like to take part in the ceremonies. The committee will arrange its program of the funeral ceremonies Sunday morning. Men were all day at the New Orleans city hall draping it in mourning for the reception of the body of Mr. Davis, which will lie in state there in the great central hall of the building. The work however, will not be completed until after midnight, and the body cannot be moved until an early hour tomorrow morning. Mr. Davis is clothed in a suit of confederate gray, which he wore during his declining days. CONCERT OF ACTION.

Gov. Gordon of Georgia telegraphed the governors of all the southern states suggesting that the people of the several states meet at the mittee into the subject of the defalcation of hour appointed for the funeral of Mr. Davis and join in suitable memorial exercises. He also suggested that the people unite in raising a fund for the family. Telegrams have been sent inquiring if the family would consent to a fund being raised, and, if so, it will be begun at once. Mayor Glenn of Atlanta has ordered the city buildings draped for thirty days and the people to meet at 11 o'clock on the day of the funeral for suitable exercises. In Richmond, Va.; Columbia, S.C.; Augusta

Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans, Fort Worth, Tex.; Lynchburg, Va., and in fact in every town and city in the south the residents marked their regret at the ex-president's death by tolling the church bells and draping in deep mourning public institutions and private residences. Telegrams of condolence were sent from every part of the south to Mrs. Davis and almost every post of confederate soldiers held meetings last night and adopted suitable resolutions. In Mississippi yesterday business was entirely suspended in all the towns and the courts everywhere adjourned. The Virginia legislature has appointed a joint committee to draft resolutions expressing the sorrow of the people of Virginia at the death of Mr. Davis.

THE SOUTHERN GOVERNORS. Among the messages of condolence received by Mrs. Davis were telegrams from Gov. Fitzhugh Lee of Virginia, Gov. J. B. Gordon of Georgia, who suggests that all the southern governors take part in the funeral; Gov. D G. Fowle of North Carolina, Gov. Robert Lowry of Mississippi, Gov. Frank Nicholls of Louisiana, Gov. L. S. Ross of Texas, Justice L. Q. C. Lamar of the Supreme Court. Senators Reagan of Texas, Walthall of Mississippi, Gov. G. P. Richardson of South Carolina and Gov.

H. P. Fleming of Florida. WINNIE DAVIS PROSTRATED. Miss Winnie Davis, who is in Paris as guest of her cousin, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, was prostrated by the sad news and unable to see any one, but her cousin kindly furnished the following information: "We were all dreadfully shocked," said she, "at the news of Mr. Davis' death. Only yesterday we had received a cablegram from Mrs. Davis telling us that her husband was con valescing rapidly.

"A letter which came about the same time was most reassuring in tone; consequently we had every reason to believe that all was going well, when, without any warning, at noon today dispatches came telling us that Mr. Davis had died shortly after midnight this morning. That one terrible fact is all we know, Mrs. Davis being doubtless too much overcome to send any details."

"Of course this sad event will change all Miss Davis' plans, and instead of spending the winter with me in Paris she will sail for America next week to join her family.
"Only one sister is left—Mrs. Hayes. Her home is in Colorado. Four sons are all dead." WHAT THE FOREIGN PRESS SAYS.

All the London papers have leaders on Jefferson Davis. The Globe recalls Mr. Gladstone's eulogium, including the famous phrase so much criticized at the time, "Jefferson Davis has created a nation," and adds that if he did not create a nation it was because such a creation was clearly not possible in the conditions; that if statesmanship, military genius, and devotion on the part of a whole people were sufficient for the foundation of a state a slave-holding republic would have been established.

The St. James Gazette doubts whether Davis will take a historical position as one of the world's great men. He had wonderful luck in discovering Lee, one of the greatest generals of the age, and Secretary Benjamin, an exceedingly shrewd administrator. The Gazette draws a striking comparison between Davis and some of his famous cotemporaries and especially compares Lincoln's unique personality and deeply cherished memory with the absence of enthusiasm for Davis or even of general in-terest in him. Lee, it says, is glorified in the old world as in the new. Stonewall Jackson is almost glorified in England, while, as Davis departs from the scene of human activities it is doutful if a single person outside the immediate circle of his relatives is affected by a passing thrill of emotion. A NEW YORK HOTEL'S FLAG LOWERED. The Union flag over the New York hotel, on Broadway, was at half mast all day yesterday, in mourning for the death of Jefferson Davis. Proprietor Cranston was a personal friend of the ex-president of the confederacy and Mr. Davis made that hotel his headquarters whenever he was in the city. There was a meeting southerners there and a resolution was ten a letter strongly favoring an adequate show of Austrian products at the proposed world's fair in America, All the men in thirty-five collieries at Essen,

Germany, have resolved to strike. The government demands authority and an appropriation to make an addition of 1,000 men to the All the coal porters of London will strike on Wednesday in conjunction with the gas workers, who gave notice to the gas company three days ago that they would strike in one week if the company did not dismiss the blacklegs. Refugees confirm the report that the mahdi is about to send a large force to invade the frontier districts of Egypt.

It is reported that the Jesnits will be expelled from Brazil and their houses and lands The German reichstag advanced to its third reading the bill for an imperial bank in the exact form proposed by the government. The Hague chamber has approved, by a vote of 31 to 18, the government bill for grants to denominational government schools and the abolition of free education except for paupers, The Boersen Zeitung of Berlin says that the reichstag is certain to reject the expulsion clause of the socialist bill, and that the govern-ment has resolved to drop the bill altogether. The provisional government of Brazil has sent a cable dispatch to the Rothschilds asking them to continue their financial support. The Messrs. Rothschild have consented on condition that the union be preserved and toat order be maintained throughout the republic.

Baron Depenedo, Brazilian minister to England, has been dismissed from office and his name removed from the diplomatic list because his hostile attitude to the Brazilian republic was doing an injury to the state. Senor Itajuada

Absolutely Pure.

PURE AND INFALLIBLE. I am informed by a number of my patrons that many
